WHITE NOISE

White Noise explores the space that remains open in contemporary design. It focuses on what is still untapped: objects that are not driven by mass production or visual excess, but by material complexity, human scale, and craft.

The White Noise collection is built around restraint rather than reduction. Each piece is handmade, technically demanding, and designed to work in close relation to the body. Materials are used honestly and structurally, and every product is made to order, allowing for a high level of customisation while maintaining a strong and recognisable identity.

White Noise embraces design as a quiet presence - precise, adaptable, and lasting.

WAVE

Wave is a sculptural, organic collection inspired by the movement of the sea. Its soft, continuous curves of the base give the pieces a fluid and almost instinctive character. The collection includes a sideboard or bar cabinet, available in two sizes, as well as a bedside table. The interior of the cabinet can be configured as a bar, while the exterior allows the combination of up to six different woods, paired with a lacquered base in a wide range of colours. Wave is defined by its roundness, material richness, and calm visual rhythm.

CURVE

Curve explores the dialogue between stone and wood through a system of intersecting slabs. The pieces are composed almost like a three-dimensional puzzle, where each element supports and defines the next. The collection includes a console, dining table and coffee table. Clients can combine over twenty marbles with different woods, creating highly personalised pieces that remain architectural, balanced and expressive.

SIENA

Sienna is a versatile seating piece designed for comfort and everyday use. Available as a dining chair and bar chair, it combines soft proportions with a light, playful presence. It can be produced fully in wood, lacquered, or upholstered. Its generous shape and careful ergonomics make it especially comfortable, while its adaptability allows it to work in both residential and contract settings.

VOLTA

Volta is presented as a dinner or bar chair made in stainless steel, characterised by continuous curved lines and a light, elegant structure. Its design recalls the experimental spirit of the 1970s while remaining timeless. The chair can be lacquered in over 26 colours and includes an upholstered seat. Despite its sculptural form, Volta is practical, comfortable and suitable for both private and hospitality spaces.
