The synchronisation of diversity

Periods of profound cultural and social transformation demand from human choreography complex movements, open to constant reinvention. This reinvention and experimentation, oriented toward future projection, have accelerated, even as there is a growing sense that the future itself has become an outdated idea, overtaken by the vertigo of dematerialization. In this edition of GUIDance, we address the importance of the body — its representation as a technology of the future — and the implications of a set of revolutions synchronized in time, which affect our cognitive power and the construction of life in community. In its 15th edition, we bring back the grandeur of past presences (Akram Khan, Marie Chouinard, Olga Roriz, Tânia Carvalho, Joana von Mayer Trindade & Hugo Calhim Cristóvão), whose work underscores the relevance of investing in relationships and in the material foundations of our humanism. At the same time, we open space for the discovery of other voices (Janet Novás, Ermira Goro), so that this reinvention and experimentation may offer us new ways of thinking and feeling, as a possibility for the growth of all our differences. The synchronization of diversity is now a process that challenges our evolution, and there is nothing more fitting than to channel this revolution of different intentions through dance — and through stories capable of bringing understanding to our present and empathy to our gaze. The journey will be intense, as in previous editions, but the expressive manifestation of art and the multiple forms of the human imagination will make this GUIDance a vast sensitive field and an invitation to the possibility of synchronizing the improbable. Let us dance, then, in synchrony, through the difference that defines us.

O Salvado

Twelve years have passed since The Rite of Spring, her last solo. Now, Olga Roriz feels once again compelled to confront herself. Titled O Salvado (All That She Has Managed to Save), this performance emerges from an unresolved question, from an intention yet to be discovered. It is not a formal search for new languages, but the continuation of a shared struggle. Like someone resisting a shipwreck, she asks herself: what can be saved from catastrophe? What traces remain after the storm? What can still preserve a life spanning seven decades? What remains anchored in the body and in time, and what can finally be released to become matter, memory, presence? What has not yet died within her? And what has she, in the end, managed to free herself from? What body is this now? What stories remain to be told? Everything suspended. Everything in the air. Everything anchored in memory. It is from this material, from this urgent need to exist between what is remembered and what is lost, between what was and what might still be — that the necessity to reinvent herself arises. memory. It is from this material, from this urgent need to exist between what is remembered and what is lost, between what was and what might still be — that the necessity to reinvent herself arises.

Janet Novás & Mercedes Peón ^(ES)

Mercedes máis eu

“Mercedes máis eu is a powerful encounter between Janet Novás, a dancer and actress who has collaborated with several companies including les ballets C de la B and was awarded the 2024 Goya Award for Best New Actress, and Mercedes Peón, a singer and composer regarded as one of the most charismatic women on today’s world music scene. Drawing on the cultural heritage of Galicia, the artists create a hybrid duet of music and dance filled with evocative imagery. Between instruments, memories, songs, and movements, concepts emerge in different states of latency. Some — strongly socio-political — manifest in the material through musical, choreographic, and biographical objects; others, somatic or almost quantum in nature, surface in pulses, rhythms, and tonalities, in voices and dynamics, in silences, and in forms. With a punk spirit and an emancipatory drive, Mercedes máis eu immerses the audience in a contemporary ritual of memory and intense rhythms, exploring diverse sensory architectures.

Ana Rita Xavier, Daniel Conant, Madison Pomarico, Andy Pomarico, Jonas Friedlich, Maurícia Barreira Neves, Belisa Branças Tender Riot

Tender Riot happens before we begin — a preparation for revolt, a temporary shelter for weary dreamers. The stage becomes a barricade, a concert, a ritual of humiliation. A performance that has gone wrong, where everyone is in motion. We build and dismantle our own authority until delicacy becomes defiance. Between a performance, a protest, and a support group for those experiencing burnout, the piece unfolds as the dream of a rebellion that never arrives. Tender Riot brings together seven artists from dance, music, visual arts, and performance for their first collaboration. At the intersection of choreography, sound, light, and visual design, the group explores collectivity as resistance and tenderness as practice. Based on horizontality and experimentation, different artistic communities unite to create a work that is simultaneously intimate and challenging.

Compagnie Marie Chouinard ^(CA) MAGNIFICAT + BodyremixRemix

If Marie Chouinard is known for a single work, it is surely bODY_rEMIX/ gOLDBERG_vARIATIONS (2005), in which the company's dancers explore variations on the exercise of freedom, reflecting the complexity of the human condition. In this double bill presented at the 15th edition of GUILDance, that piece is reimagined in a shorter version and performed alongside her new creation, MAGNIFICAT (2025), both set to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach. In MAGNIFICAT, Chouinard reinvents Bach's sacred work in honor of the Virgin Mary, in a choreography that celebrates movement, rigor, and beauty through Baroque music sung in Latin, reinterpreted for the present day. Through group formations, as well as trios, duets, and solos, MAGNIFICAT is a choreography that, like the very best, leaves the audience wanting more. BodyremixRemix, like the original piece, is filled with striking imagery of dancers equipped with crutches, prostheses, and pointe shoes — sometimes restricting, sometimes liberating, sometimes generating new movements. Subtle and extravagant, sumptuous and wild, BodyremixRemix explores the insoluble mystery of the human body and being through a poetic, captivating, and contemporary journey.

Ocelo

Ocelo is a sensory and multidisciplinary performance aimed at children aged six and up. It stems from the need to look positively at the world around us and from the desire to create beauty. On stage, a greenhouse — like a laboratory — emerges as a space for inventing beauty and exploring the ecosystem of the three beings that inhabit it. These beings transform throughout the performance, reinventing themselves through movement, music, and words. Mutant creatures invent new meanings for familiar words and set out to discover the essential ingredients for provoking wonder. Ocelo thus explores beauty as a place where reality and imagination meet — beauty as a feeling of astonishment, mystery, and reflection.

O Sono da Montanha + O Gesto do Falcão

O Sono da Montanha + O Gesto do Falcão are two new solos by Tânia Carvalho, conceived respectively for dancers Marta Cerqueira and Bruno Senune. When Tânia Carvalho creates a work of art, she recognizes that each performer will experience it in a unique way. Each brings their own experiences, emotions, and perspectives, coloring the performance with an individual interpretation. Similarly, the dance itself transforms with every movement, evoking diverse sensations in those who perform it. Over years of collaboration, the partnership between the choreographer and dancers Marta Cerqueira and Bruno Senune has become an inexhaustible source of inspiration and creativity. The connection and understanding that permeated every rehearsal enabled a fluid and organic collaboration. The creation of these solos, for each of them, was thus a shared journey of artistic exploration. Tânia Carvalho's familiarity with their individual styles provided fertile ground for creative expression to flourish, resulting in two performances that transcend even their own expectations.

Ermira Goro (GR) Sirens

The new creation by young Albanian choreographer based in Greece, Ermira Goro, Sirens invites the audience on a sensory and mysterious journey into the world of desire and its social expression. Addressing themes of gender and transformation, performers Chara Kotsali and Adonis Vais appear as sensual creatures, part machine, part human, moving in a game of approach and retreat that transforms the stage into a territory of seduction, tension, and freedom. Through movements that are at times precise and robotic, at times voluptuous and instinctive, the bodies test the boundaries between touch and absence of touch, between fantasy and reality, and between gender and its dissolution. As the rhythm accelerates — to the music composed by Jeph Vanger — and physicality intensifies, the piece opens up a vision where eroticism, performativity, and vulnerability coexist. Sirens is a hypnotic evocation of the power of the body and the gaze, an invitation to lose ourselves in the multiple layers of contemporary desire.

Joana von Mayer Trindade & Hugo Calhim Cristóvão (PT) Quando Vem A Taciturna De Limiar Em Limiar O Presente Frágil

Quando Vem a Taciturna de Limiar em Limiar o Presente Frágil invokes the Mahavydias, fierce goddesses of impure wisdom that both hurt and laugh; Fernando Pessoa deliriously “East to the east of the East”; Camilo Pessanha exhaling melancholy between linen sheets; Al Berto distilling fear into poetic ether; Paul Celan summoning the “Song of a Lady in the Shadow.” Drawing on philosophical concepts, the choreographer duo Joana von Mayer Trindade & Hugo Calhim Cristóvão confront the fragile emptiness of the now, the eternal conflict between past, present, and future that, from crossroads to crossroads, challenges and excites the finite. The dance unfolds between thresholds — between being and non-being, desire and emptiness, life and death — transience as a beloved and shattered flesh that reveals the beauty of chaos that never returns. From threshold to threshold, the performance creates unrepeatable moments, immune to terror, transforming apocalyptic urgency into survival.

Akram Khan Company (UK)

Chotto Dosh

The 15th edition of GUIDance concludes with Chotto Dosh and the long-awaited return of the Akram Khan Company to the Vila Flor Cultural Center. Adapted in 2015 by Theatre-Rites director Sue Buckmaster from Akram Khan's acclaimed solo Dosh — which earned him the 2012 Olivier Award — this moving story follows a young boy seeking to find his place in the world. Now it returns to capture the attention and imagination of a new generation of young audiences. Chotto Dosh, meaning "small homeland," is built on Akram Khan's unique talent for intercultural storytelling, creating an engaging tale of a boy's dreams and memories, spanning from Britain to Bangladesh, celebrating the resilience of the human spirit in the modern world. Combining classical Indian Kathak dance and contemporary movement with a refined fusion of spoken text, dreamlike animation, visual elements, and original music by Jocelyn Pook composed specifically for the piece, Chotto Dosh is a truly enchanting experience that transcends cultures and generations.

O Salvado, de Olga Roriz

Rehearsals are fundamental moments of creation and preparation in the making of a performance. This open rehearsal, aimed at schools in the region and followed by a conversation with journalist, writer, and performing arts specialist Cláudia Galhós, is a unique opportunity to gain closer insight into the working processes of Olga Roriz and her production O Salvado.

Some of the artists featured in the GUIDance programme visit secondary schools in the municipality to share their paths, life experiences, and artistic visions in the classroom. This visit is later reciprocated by the students, who are invited to attend the performance by the artist with whom they have established a shared sense of exchange.

Bailar Fora de Casa

THU FEB 5 ✦ 7.00PM ✦ ASSOCIAÇÃO OS 20 ARAUTOS

With Cátia Esteves

As in last year, and following the success of this initiative, the 15th edition of GUIDance opens itself once again to dancing at Associação Os 20 Arautos. Within the framework of Bailar em Casa—where people gather on Wednesdays at the Casa da Memória de Guimarães to dance to music from different parts of the globe—the GUIDance festival joins the dance and invites everyone to step into the circle at the headquarters of Associação Os 20 Arautos. No dance experience is required. All that's needed is the desire to move your body and challenge gravity.

Bailar em Casa

WED FEB 11 ✦ 7.00PM ✦ CASA DA MEMÓRIA DE GUIMARÃES

With Yineth Jaramillo

Dance and memory are two concepts intertwined through time and emotion. The Casa da Memória de Guimarães, as a place open to all communities and to both tangible and intangible heritage, offers a challenge with a set date and time: moments of sharing music and dance from different rhythms and latitudes. This is an encounter of freedom and joy, in which everyone takes part using a language we all speak and understand, even when the words are spoken in another language.

The GUIDance masterclasses are a unique experience, offering dancers and advanced-level dance students privileged access to the working methodologies of some of the most renowned national and international contemporary dance companies. In the 15th edition of the festival, we have the privilege of welcoming Compagnie Marie Chouinard to lead the first masterclass, followed by a second masterclass led by Akram Khan Company. As a complementary component of the training, participants are also granted access to performances by the companies leading the masterclasses. An unmissable opportunity for skills development, which has long been part of GUIDance's investment and one of its core objectives.

Target audience Advanced-level dance professionals and students

Maximum participants 20

Registration deadline 30 January

Price 15€ [includes a ticket to the performance by the company leading the masterclass]

2nd Edition

Thinking about the archive of the future, in 2025 we planted the seeds for what became a body — or a system of perspectives — on GUIDance. An informal group of people with different backgrounds followed the festival with the aim of producing multidisciplinary reflection around it. In this 15th edition of GUIDance, we continue this important movement, which contributes to expanding fields of perception, production, and communication through the artistic proposals that make up the festival programme.

Post-performance conversations are moments of great connection between the audience and the artists. Moderated by Cláudia Galhós, they provide an informal and interactive space for exchanging experiences and reflecting on the creative processes and themes explored in the festival's performances. Undoubtedly, one of the most inclusive and participatory moments of GUIDance, where the audience engages directly with the artists.

Debate

Dance in a Critical State

On the importance of imagination and re-imagining in times of great fragility

SAT FEB 7 ✦ 4.00PM ✦ CIAJG ✦ CONFERENCE ROOM

Debate I

SAT FEB 14 ✦ 4.00PM ✦ CIAJG ✦ CONFERENCE ROOM

Debate II

Rehabilitating the possibility of thinking about the future. That is what dance, at this GUIDance, brings us. It is not about closing the door—or our senses—to the wounds and violence in which we currently live, nor to the present traces of a less-than-glorious past. It is about reactivating imagination and the exercise of re-imagining, while remaining aware of the many threats to freedom, the threats to human existence, the threat of the extinction of all forms of life on the planet, the threat to understanding and welcoming those who seek refuge, the threat to tolerance, and the threat to valuing difference. In some way, the proposals of GUIDance 2026 are permeated by these questions: some approach them with joy and humour; others as acts of courage and endurance; others as a claim for seduction, pleasure, and desire; and still others as a celebration and articulation of coexistence among differences. The body vibrates and carries with it thought and critical visions of the world's critical state. It is about all of this that we will converse on these two Saturdays, inspired by the programme of GUIDance 2026.

Paraíso

by Daniel Mota

In the early 1990s, Portugal experienced its own explosion of dance music. Raves of epic proportions and a new sound gave rise to what was then called “Underground house music from a paradise called Portugal.” Featuring exclusive footage and interviews with DJs, producers, dancers and promoters, the film traces the genesis and evolution of Portuguese rave culture, as well as its lasting impact on electronic music worldwide.

Beau travail

by Claire Denis

Galoup (Denis Lavant), a former officer of the French Foreign Legion, lives harsh yet happy days in the Gulf of Djibouti, until the arrival of the recruit Sentain awakens in him a burning jealousy. Based on a short story by Melville, Beau Travail foregrounds the banality of the legionnaires' daily routine, isolated from everything, as they occupy themselves with military drills under the scorching sun. In her most beloved film, Denis shoots bodies with sensuality, in a style closer to poetry than to narrative. A film neither of war nor of love, it culminates in one of the most beautiful dance scenes in the history of contemporary cinema.
